At the North Bush Methodist Church, services will be held Sundays at 10:30 by Rev. James Beatty.

PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

Beautiful Canada Lake, once again, beckons to all of her friends and campers to come to her shores to receive the spiritual benediction of her artistry and to renew the fellowship that is entwined in the Canada Lake Protective Association. As President of your Association, I would like to welcome you all back. May this year bring abundant pleasure to you, and may it satisfy some of the deeper needs that nature in all her glory can fulfill. Your association, your officers and your committeemen have greatly expanded the activities of the association. We think that you will find the activities both fruitful and rewarding.

The season will officially begin with the fireworks on Stoner Island. Mr. George Lyons, Mr. Merwin Lyons and Mr. Richard Jones, all of Dolgenville, will be in charge of this event. These men respectfully request that all boats stay at least 200 ft. from the island while the display is in progress. We are deeply grateful to these men for putting on this spectacular for us.

Following the fireworks there will be a Flare Lighting event or pageant, as it were. Your directors feel that the flare lighting in September is so beautiful and so heartwarming that they felt that a similar event in the beginning of the year would be greatly appreciated. You can secure your flares at the Canada Lake Store. Please be sure that your flare is trim and burning at the appointed hour, as part of a joyful welcome to home coming campers.

The first thing that comes to our mind after feasting our eyes on the deep blue of the water and the virgin forest that surrounds it is the thought of clean, white sails gliding silently by. I do not think that there is a lake anywhere that can do justice to a sail as can Canada Lake. Our lake is tightly bound by majestic mountains. It is as though all nature rose up to look at this beautiful lake and at the island which sets like a jewel in the midst of her. This, I say, is one of nature's wonders and the sail boat fits it like a glove. Before the season's done Bill Dunstan has the dates fixed and the charts drawn for the following year. All that is needed is the starters gun and the race is on. Many thanks are due Bill Dunstan and also Fred Saunders, who fires the gun, who holds the stopwatch and who waits 'till the race is done to give each entry its just due. We hope that more people will take up this great sport. Even the smaller boats can often outrun the larger boats. In truth, here is a sport where the boy can outrace the man.

Our third spectacular is the Ladies Card Parties. Each year this event has grown in popularity. Last year your host was Mrs. Evelyn Loomis. This year Evelyn has planned 2 parties for your enjoyment. This will be welcome news to all the ladies of the lake. Our hats are off to Evelyn for being such a fine hostess.

Last year, for the first time, two Young Peoples Parties were held on Jung's beach. Robert Failing, Jr. and his wife Hazel were in charge of both parties, which were a spectacular success. Here the young people became acquainted with each other and spent an evening under the moon and the stars. We feel that this event was the most rewarding because it fulfilled a real need of companionship. Bob said, "Our motto is: to have fun and to leave the beach better than we found it." Two parties are planned for this year: one under the direction of Robert Failing and the second under Mr. & Mrs. Arthur Taylor. We are deeply grateful to Mr. Jung for offering his beach for these occasions. I sincerely hope that Bob Failing's motto will be our standard as long as our lake exists: "To leave the place better than we found it."

Mr. Willard Harper, president of the Oregon Mountain Corp., has reported to me that the Stewart Landing Dam is in good condition and that when the water was drawn down last fall no repairs were needed. State engineers have inspected the dam and have reported that it is in excellent condition. Mr. Harper says that the water level will be the same as last year. Heavy rainfall in June caused the water to be several inches higher than it otherwise would be. Mr. Harper said that each year the gates of the dam will be opened in the late fall and will remain open all winter. The gates will not be closed until after the ice melts in the spring and then the water will come up to its normal level. With this management, the level of the lake will vary very little. The things that will cause the level of the water to change will be heavy rains or a prolonged draught.

It seems that the Kuklas have an affinity for the island which goes back a long way. When Anna was in her teens, her boy friend called on her in an airplane. He was a very skillful pilot but he was so interested in Anna that he forgot that there was an island in the lake. So, when he took her for a ride, he was scarcely air borne when, lo, he saw a fir tree standing, as it were, in the center of the lake. There was no time to maneuver because the plane was still climbing. This may have saved their lives because they sheared off the top of the grand old pine tree which stands so proudly on the island. A large branch came through the windshield of the plane and nearly decapitated the occupants. But Anna, in her usual composure, forecasting the great lady she is, directed the pilot to what is now the Jung beach for a safe landing. Everyone who loves Canada Lake, I am sure, loves this island. I am sure that all are interested by the way it will hide itself in the background and become almost invisible. Again, the island will stand out clear and sharp against the water and the sky. And the pine tree has always arrested my attention; with one great limb half raised against the sky and with head down. I know now: Anna clipped the top off the pine tree.

Canada Lakers have fun in whatever they do and this is evident in our boat parade. The first Sunday in September last year was dark and showery. Admiral Zipp looks out and decides we better wait until Monday, even if it costs us many ships. Monday was a little brighter and campers were preparing to leave. But Admiral Zipp sails forth with a huge bear mounted on the bow of his ship and a few boats fall in line. Before the trip was half done the line was so long that the one end was not visible from the other end. All of those who were not in the parade came out to wave their salutes to the voyagers. Caboose fashion, Roy Loomis, brought up the rear sailing not in a wooden shoe but in an automobile.

Please do not forget the Dance Party which will be in the Wheelerville School the first week of August. Mr. Robert Wilbur is in charge of this event. Square dancing will be the fare. Jerry Theisen will be the caller. Come one, come all and have a good time. Watch for the announcement in the local paper.

I wish I had time and space to give credit to all of our directors for their selfless and dedicated service. Following are a few that cannot be passed over. First, Mr. Steinkamp, who brought our membership to 206 members. Mr. Bill Bates, who assembles and arranges the Echo. Mr. Kukla, who takes care of the island. Mr. Roy Loomis, who makes sure that the flare lighting ceremony is a success. Mr. Arden Zipp, who conducts the boat parade. I have passed over many of our faithful friends, but may I mention one more. The insight, the wisdom and the homely charm of our philosopher of the lake, Edgar Moore, is a delight to us all.

Many campers have spent their summers on Canada Lake and each of these have loved it most. And not the least of these is Roy Loomis and his lovely wife Evelyn. These like all the rest love beyond words the days at the lake. So, like the Indians who lit the fires on the shore of the lake to say goodbye to the warm and glorious summer before they turned to prepare themselves for the winter ahead, so, Roy passes out the flares and for a solemn moment we say goodbye to summer and to our friends for another season. And as we look out across the lake we see someone carrying flares in the night and placing them at intervals along Jung's beach. As though someone thought that this was like joining hands and they wished to make the circle complete.

Thank you for honoring me with your Presidency.

Sincerely,
John Watkins

ECHOS

June and Bud Osborne are planning on spending the summer at Canada Lake.

Phoebe and Tod Ballard are building a new cottage on Canada Lake. They have sold their former cottage to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fink from Schenectady, N. Y.

Gert and Louis Melnehr were visiting the lake in early May--got stuck in the snow--no fooling.

Mark and Bud Bates are working at the Colony Hotel at Kennebunkport Maine this summer. Bud just completed his freshman year at the University of North Carolina. Mark will be a senior at the Albany Academy this fall.

Nancy Ellen Petrie graduated from St. Lawrence University June 4, 1967 with a B. S. degree.

Bill Dunstan presenting the 4th of July Trophy to Monty and David Mason.

Barbara Long and daughter receiving runner-up trophy.

ABOUT SAILING

The 1966 sailboat racing season turned out to be the most successful to date, as far as the number of boats entered is concerned. A total of twenty-five sailboats entered one or more races. The wind could have been more cooperative but then we can't have everything.

Last summer, Monty Mason sailing his Lightning won the Fourth of July trophy which was presented by "The Store" run by Skeet and Marie Sliter. The Novice race was sailed for the CLPA Directors trophy and was won by Steuber's Snipe. The winners of the CLPA trophies for the first, second and third places were, Juer in his Snark, Steuber in his Snipe and Loomis in her Sailfish, respectively.

The schedule of races for the 1967 season is:

- July 4 - Store trophy
- July 15)
- 22)
- Aug. 5) CLPA trophies
- 19)
- Sept. 2)
- July 29 - Team race
- Aug. 12 - Novice race for Directors trophy
- Aug. 26 - Reserved for West Lake race

Unfortunately we had a few disqualifications last summer. In order that we all race by the rules, or at least be aware of them, Monty Mason has prepared a digest of the racing rules we will use. They appear as a supplement to this issue of the Echo.

A discussion of these rules, along with other racing data, will take place at a Skippers Meeting to be held at Jack Ryan's dock on July 2 at 11 a.m. Please make every effort to attend this meeting.

Sailboat racing is fun. This season we are looking for a total of 30 boats, which means keener competition, better knowledge of the rules and the utmost cooperation of the skippers. It also means more work for our starter, Fred Saunders. We would like to ask for volunteers to assist Fred, both on shore at the line and also afloat in a committee boat. Anyone interested please contact a member of the Race Committee.

We appreciate the understanding shown us by the power boat skippered during our sailboat races. Thanks for keeping your boats away from the racing fleet.

* No handicap established for these boats in these races.

The Canada Lakes Protective Association and the Sailing Committee want to thank all who participated in the race last season, the largest fleet to sail on the Canada Lakes. Also, the Sailing Committee wants to acknowledge the work done by our starter, Fred Saunders, our marker setters, course makers and distributors, and all others who helped make these races fun to sail for the skippers and crew, and a pleasure to watch from the shore.

MUSINGS YESTERDAY AND TODAY

Heard by Edgar E. Moore

Canada Lake 1927; Ah those lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer! Early morning fishing in the channel. Quiet, peaceful. As wild as the Canadian wilderness. Power company owns all the land and won't allow the building of any camps. Look at that catch of fish -- six pickerel -- the smallest about 20" the largest about 32"-- caught 'em trolling with a copper wire. Think coming out of the channel right here where it meets the big lake is one of the prettiest spots in the world. There goes Ed Sliter with his launch--not many big boats on the lake--mostly small ones like this and names on the bows. Well guess I'll stop at the store. Boarding house going to need repairs before long--the mill too. A bunch of logs sure have gone through that mill; but not much activity now. Nick Stoner Island. There's a young couple looking at a tree, let's listen in on them. "See Sue,--there it is just like dad said it was--L. H. loves E. M. Let's put our initials there too so we can tell the world we're in love."

Saturday night and another big crowd at Hawley's pavilion. Yard full of cars, and boats tied up at the dock. Seems like everyone plans on Saturday night here to meet their friends, swap yarns of the week and plan for the week ahead. Ten cents a dance, and the floor crowded--good band again tonight. If I can get near the fountain I'll have a soda -- what a crowd! Past eleven--time to start on back across the lake. Mist rolling in--guess the dance is over--hear the orchestra playing "Good Night Ladies".

Canada Lake 1967: Ah those lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer! Forty years have passed -- new faces, many of the old ones missing. Look at the property that has changed hands. New families--Nick Stoner Island a little bit smaller. Rocks and stone don't shrink, but some of the soil seems to have washed away. But the lake itself--that's like Tennyson's river, "men may come and men may go, but I stay on forever." Fishing in the channel isn't like it used to be, --only two small pickerel. Not so wild here any more either. Power company has sold out, and the new owners are selling lots for camps. That view coming out of the channel is the prettiest sight in the world with old Kane and Camel Hump for the background. Now there are more big boats than small ones--and no names on the bows--just numbers. The store --that's on this side of the road now. New highway to bypass the old lake road. Boarding house and saw mill have been torn down and cottages stand in their place. There's a young couple looking at a tree, let's listen in on them. "See Ann, there it is just like dad said it was, S. L. loves P. M. and look above, see, there's grandpa's and grandma's initials, L. H. loves E. M. Let's put our initials there too so we can tell the world that we are in love."

No more Saturday night dances at Nate Hawley's pavilion--how times have changed. One night Nate sent a girl home because her stockings were rolled below her knees--now one pair of stockings would make a bikini.

Ronnie and Marion Buchner have bought the building and made a beautiful motel. All those stones out front --that's where the dock used to be. Camps now occupy the area where cars used to be parked. But some times on a Saturday night when the mist comes rolling in, and the waves are lapping against the boat it just seems as though something is missing. But no--hear it? It's music. Listen--it's the witching hour and the dance is over and across the water comes that old refrain--"Good Night Ladies, we're going to leave you now".

WOULD YOU BELIEVE ---

It was the day before Sunday and all through that night,
Not a breeze was stirring - not even a might.

The sails were all hung from their moorings with care,
In hopes that the breezes soon would be there.

The children all snuggled in their life jackets in bed,
While visions of winning raced in their heads.

And Dad in his raingear, mom in her sunhat,
Had settled themselves for a nerve racking nap.

Then up on the camp roof, there arose such a clatter,
I threw up the shade to see what was the matter.

When what to my wondering eyes should appear
But the rain with the wind - hurray - it was here!!!

And the day of the race, was a grand one to see
With the tossing of white caps and the wind in the trees.

Oh, the excitement and flurry while the mainsail was raised,
May Bill Dunstan and all of the judges be praised!

So, on Comet, on Sunfish, on Sailfish and Raven,
On T-boat and J-boat and Porpoise and Swallow - ahead
There's the Star and the Lightning to follow!

And I heard a voice say as they sailed out of sight,
I may not win--but I'll put up a fight!!
